

I live in wisconsin and strongly encourage you to keep wisconsin's "Do not call" law as strong as it is. As I understand it, you are considering allowing businesses such as banks and long-distance companies to be able to call me up to 18 months after I ceased dealings with them. If I want to reconsider them for business, I will call them. They are still free to send junk mail to offer their promotions.